

How to enable extension in browser

Let's go to the chrome extensions first. Open your browser of choice and go to settings. There you will find the extensions options. Enable the developer options in the top right corner.

Now locate the CRX file named PasswordManager within the project files.

Now drag that file into the extensions area. There you have it! The extension is correctly installed. Now you can launch it, but remember to have your java program running as well else it won't have access to your passwords.
